DEDICATION

TO our Beloved Parents and our Dear Instructors who have so earnestly and faithfully guided us through our four years of high school life, we, the Seniors of '26, dedicate this year book of Garrett High School.

VIOLET SILLIMAN

Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright, just, to the end of her days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind—
What a beautiful memory she left behind.

GARRETT

TURN back the pages of time to just fifty-one years ago and you will find recorded there the birth of Garrett. Our city was named in honor of John W. Garrett, who was president of the B. & O. at the time the site was chosen, and was laid out by R. L. Randolph, the son of the chief engineer of the B. & O. R. R. The plot of ground covered by his plans marked the extent of our home village, and in 1875 it was recorded at Auburn and a few years later incorporated.

The natural resources of the community controlled for the most part the establishment of the pioneer industries, the more important of which were blacksmith shops, a brick kiln, a sawmill and two lumber companies. The Baltimore and Ohio shops were established under the construction management of Mr. A. W. Pratt. These shops were divided into three parts, machine, saw, and car shops. From year to year, greater opportunities and inducements encouraged many people to come to Garrett. The B. & O. Land Improvement Company was influential in getting homes, churches, schools, storerooms, and municipal plants established. One year from the time Mr. O. C. Clark, the first lot owner in Garrett, built his house on the corner of King and Randolph Streets, Garrett had a population of two hundred and fifty-seven people. Homes had been built to accommodate them. A hotel and stores of various kinds were also built at this time. The depot was opened to the public July 4, 1876. Mr. Thomas Taggart, now a famous politician, was in charge of the dining room. Just as news and gossip stimulate any town, so it did Garrett and the need of a local newspaper was satisfied by the publication of the Garrett News. All work and no play is harmful to any community so the desire for social diversion was somewhat met by Mr. Wagner who built a modern "Opera House."

Public instruction began in one room of the News office building. After much discussion and contention, bonds were let for a public school to be built "in the forest" east of town. This building is none other than the central building which is still in use. School was opened in January, 1877, with one hundred twenty pupils. This building, which was thought by many people to be much too large, soon failed to meet the growing demands and three splendid large school buildings have been constructed since that time.

Social, industrial, and municipal affairs have also kept pace with the growing needs and demands of the city. The B. & O. reconstructed and enlarged its shops, built new tracks, and installed the electric signal system. Some of the tales of our muddy streets in the main part of town seem unbelievable when today we view the miles of pavement. The city can boast of seven churches, a public library, a beautiful Masonic Temple, a large modern hospital, a splendidly equipped clinic, an adequate city hall, two new banks, many new and spacious mercantile buildings, an ice factory, Creek Chub Bait Factory, a modern laundry, and many beautiful modern homes. Within these homes we find happy, progressive people who are constantly alert to the growth and prosperity of Garrett, and who are ever endeavoring to make this a better place in which to live.

FACULTY

A YEAR IN GARRETT

A PERSON going from one community to another finds general customs, civic, social, and religious activities, educational programs, and habits of life varying but little and usually only in details. A community with a large foreign born population reflects very much the same manners of life and community interests as any other community drawing its population largely from the same sources. Yet, each community has a different spirit and atmosphere, one that is soon seen and recognized.

Older communities often develop a spirit of easy complacency, or haughty, over-bearing, "better-than-thou" attitude, or of pride in former days and events; while younger towns and cities are filled with the spirit of "do," "get results," "watch us grow," "build for the future," or spirited but friendly rivalry.

It was more the "air" of these last two that impressed me as very prominent in the community life at Garrett. Sometimes differences of opinion coupled with this spirit of friendly rivalry even prevents the very progress within the community that both sides really want, but it is hoped that Garrett will not be guilty of this. Ultimately one side usually yields in the interests of harmony and progress. This same attitude is manifested towards neighboring communities and regardless of their reception by them Garrett believes that the friendly hand and spirit, in the long run, wins and holds friends, be the keen rivalry what it may.

The schools, too, reflect this same spirit and a genuine spirit of progress, open mindedness, and of genial helpfulness pervades the teaching force and student body and chides the occasional individual slacker or reactionary. A realization of the value and necessity of team work between teachers, building groups, parents and school officials is making a healthy growth that augurs much for effectiveness in the future.

The new high school building with its artistic landscape gardening is a fine beginning for a new day for Garrett school buildings. Remodeling or replacing of other buildings, clean, freshly tinted school room walls, well varnished woodwork and furniture are to follow rapidly as finances will permit and this will do much to develop and maintain the cheerful, ambitious, healthy spirit of the boys and girls during the many years of school life in which they spend most of their waking hours under their influence.

One of the greatest problems confronting the school this year was the need for a sense of individual reponsibility on the part of each boy and girl for being promptly and regularly in their proper places and doing their assigned work each day and all day. The necessity was evident for parents and teachers alike to feel they should plan and arrange matters so as to interfere as little as possible with the regular daily attendance and work. Few things, if anything, can give the pupil a sense of self confidence and buoyance as the consciousness of complete mastery of the daily tasks that come to him. On the other hand, probably nothing can so much discourage and give one the sense of failure, lack of ability and utter worthlessness as habitual failure to cope with and really master the things the school demands of him. Irreguarity is one of the greatest contributing facts in causing such failures.

School library facilities have not been at all adequate and it seems that not the best use is made of the opportunities we have. A good healthy spirit of study and broad scholarship is a thing to be desired and sought. The school and city libraries should be available to pupils during the hour and one-half noon period. Let us hope this may be possible soon.

These are things that a year in Garrett has made prominent. They are not the only problems by any means as is shown by our strenuous efforts to secure permission from the State Board of Tax Commissioners to build a more adequate gymnasium but they are more vital and significant. Loyalty, co-operation, and unselfish boosting has done much to put over a good program the past year and increased thoughtfulness and zeal along these lines will accomplish more in the next.

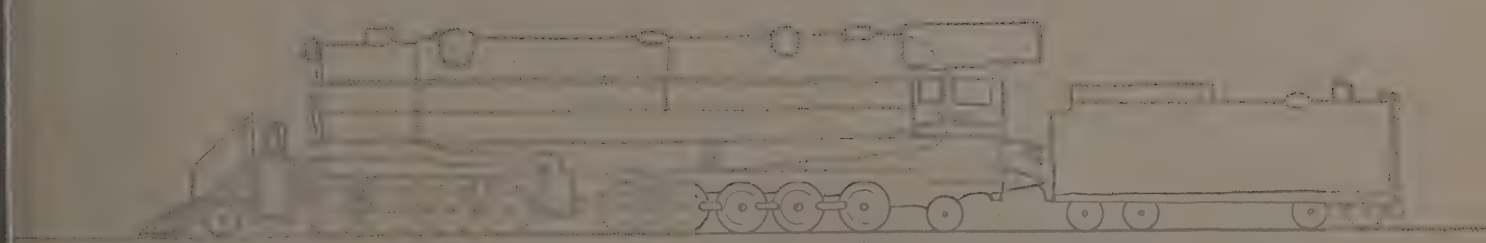
SENIORS



CLASS OF '26

'Twas a nice autumnal day
In September, '22;
'Twas with a mind to work and play
Came the Freshmen, eighty-two.

They started in with lots of vim,
And much interest, too,
To show the people they could win
In what they tried to do.

The first year ended with success
And hope began to grow;
To replace the former thought, "I guess,"
A new thought formed, "I know."

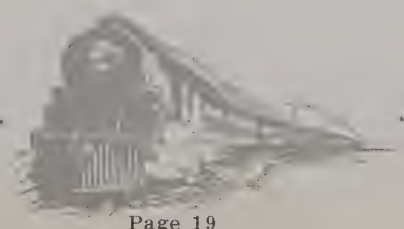
As Sophomores they further went
Upon the road to fame;
The officers they chose were meant
To guard their precious name.

The Junior year was full of pep
And much work was done,
For on the narrow way they kept
Till the contest should be won.

The last year was the best of all
From beginning unto end;
The Seniors, when the class did call,
Their energies did bend.

And now the end of High School Days
Is drawing very near,
But it's just the start of other ways
To live this life so dear.

—Esther Clark, '26.



EVELYN MILLER, "Ebe"

"Thou wouldst be loved? Then let thy heart
From its present pathway part not,
Being everything which now thou art
Being nothing which thou art not."

LEO FERRY, "Skeeters"

"I am more than common tall."

LOUISE HART, "Twee"

"Our "Twee Hart" is a merry soul
With blithe and happy spirit,
While here she's played full many a role,
Her work has the stamp of high merit."

WARD RICKEY, "Prof"

"So brilliant in mind
So austere in stature,
We're anxious to see
What'll become of this factor."

CLINTON HAMILTON, "Clint"

"The time I've lost in wooing,
In watching and pursuing
The light that lies in women's eyes
Has been my heart's undoing."

LILLIE SLIGER, "Loll"

"Never love unless you can
Bear with all the faults of man."

CLOYDE BROWN, "Fat"

"I dare do all that becomes a man
Who dare do more is none."

MARGARET WITHERSPOON, "Maggie"

"I love to dance
Flirt and play
Be clever all
The livelong day."

ELIZABETH MONN, "Liz"

"In spite of all the learned have said,
I still my own opinion keep."

EDWARD McKAIN, "Ed"

"Fain would I climb
But that I fear to fall."

LaVON WOLF, "Bonnie"

"She was in love a long, long time,
Used to say "He's only mine;"
But now she say's "This way boys!
Once again I'll take my choice."

WARD WEST, "Zulu"

"I should worry, I should fret,
He says in his careless way,
I'll get thru school sometime yet,
And then I'll make a great day."

EARL McKINLEY, "Mac"

"Nay, blame me not; I might have spared
Your patience many a trivial verse;
Yet these my earlier welcome shared
So, let the better shield the worse."

RUTH OBER, "Midget"

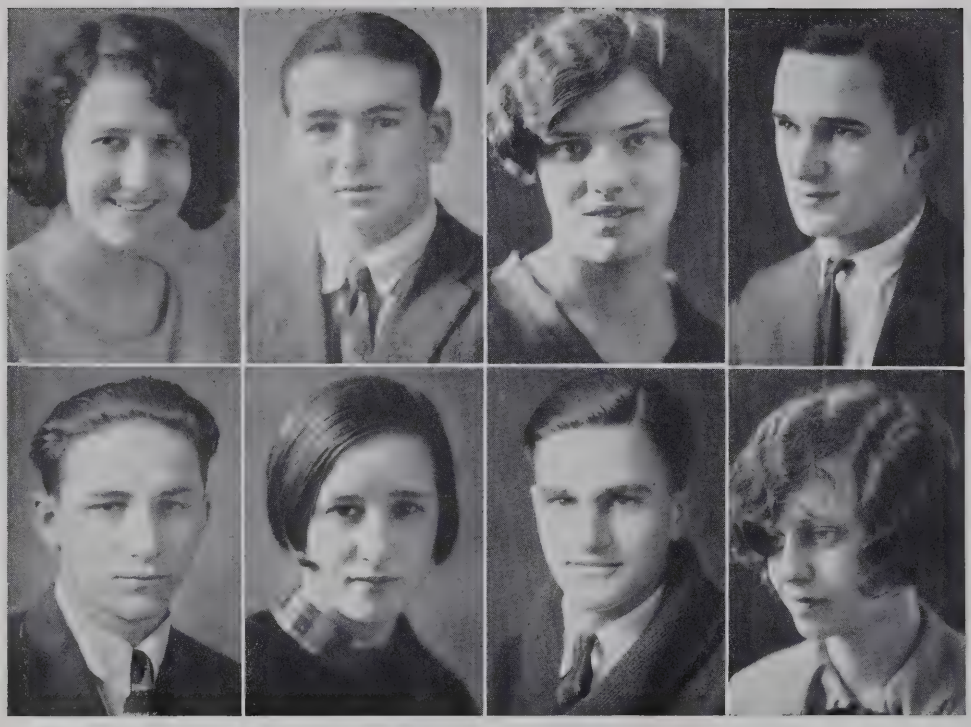
"No fantastic carvings show
The boast of our vain race to change
The form of thy fair works."

WENDELL BOWLBY, "Tuby"

"When I said I would die a bachelor I did not think I should live till I were married."

LELA VANHOUTEN, "Johnnie"

"Johnnie has so many loves
She hardly knows what she's about;
She looks at them with eyes of brown:
They say, "Don't leave us out."



WILMA SHREVE, "Willie"

"I chatter, chatter as I flow
To join the brimming river;
For men may come and men may go
But I go on forever."

ERNEST MEESE, "Mouse"

'He, from Corunna came
To participate in the high school game;
He joined and did with zest
What we mark the very best."

ESTHER HALL, "Essex"

"Life is a jest and all things show it,
I thought so once and now I know it."

RAYMOND RICKARD, "Ray"

"He is so tall
And such a shiek,
That in the movies
We're sure he'll creep."

GERALD WILER, "Romeo"

"Rattley old Ford can—
You can hold it in your hand,
He's right there on the dot
Ready to take you to any spot."

GEORGIA BENNETT, "George"

"Georgia is mischievous
And industrious too,
She's never a minute
Without something to do."

JASON LUTTMAN, "Jake"

"He's an athlete through and through,
He's one you can't surpass
In business too he'll make his mark
We're glad he's in our class."

KATHRINE SHARPLESS, "Kate"

"Morning never wore to evening
But some heart did break."

VIVIAN ANDREWS, "Babe"

"Laugh and the world laughs with you."

JOHN MUZZILLO, "Muzzy"

"To say why gals acts so and so
Or don't would be presumin';
Mebby to mean "yes" and "no"
Comes natural to women."

MARGARET WOODCOX, "Maggie"

"Maggie is so very quiet
This girl—we can hardly spy it;
But when it comes to parties and affairs
You're sure to find this one there."

EARL GRAHAM, "Cobs"

"If music be the food of love—play on."

GARNER KEEFE, "Spud"

"In school and on the football ground,
This young man has won renown;
We've no doubt he'll persevere
And win success in his chosen career."

LEAH GEHRUM, "Lee'

"Her smiles, her speech, her winning way
Wiles the young men's moods away."

GEORGE MOUNTZ, "Red"

"His hair is natural curls,
Of auburn red are they:
Was our B. B. center, likes everyone,
Mostly————————girls."

MARIAN CAFFERY, "Irish"

"She's full of fun as we all know
She's never sad or weary,
And no matter where she goes
She makes the air seem cheery."

HELEN SUMMERS, "Tillie"

"Helen is her name
Love is her game
Ralph is his name
Oh! Helen!"

HARRY RAHMER, "Buck"

"When the one Great Scorer comes
To write against your name,
He will not write that you've won or lost
But how you've played the game."

DOLORES STONER, "Dee"

'Take, O take those lips away
That so sweetly were forsworn,
And those eyes, the break of day,
Lights that do mislead the morn."

HOLLIS BREECE, "Oogie"

"And when he talks—Ye Gods!
How he does spread it."

HARRY HEINZERLING, "Chink"

"I will not budge for no one's pleasure."

DOROTHY JOHNSON, "Dot"

"Happy am I, from care I am free;
Oh why aren't they all contented like me."

WALTER HOPKINS, "Wally"

"We all know Walter is quiet;
We all know he is shy;
But what it is we'd like to know,
Is just the reason why."

LUCILE KELHAM, "Shorty"

"Quiet and studious, serious and deep,
True to her convictions she'll keep;
A firm believer in Woman's rights,
Studying and attention are her delights."

RUTH DITMARS, "Ruthie"

"Ye powers—Who rules the tongue."

CHARLES SWARTOUT, "Charley"

"Charley, my boy.
A Junior girl doth say,
And he listens to that voice
Whene'er it comes his way."

LILLIAN BEEBER, "Lil"

"A song and a smile
And a life that is deep
Makes life worth while
For all in its sweep."

HAROLD HAYNES, "Napoleon"

"Alas! This love of women! it is known,
To be a lovely and a fearful thing!"

ANDREW ST. AMANT, "Andy"

"Andy is a regular clown—
We'll sure miss him round the town;
We all laugh and play
When he comes our way."

ESTHER CLARK, "YUTCH"

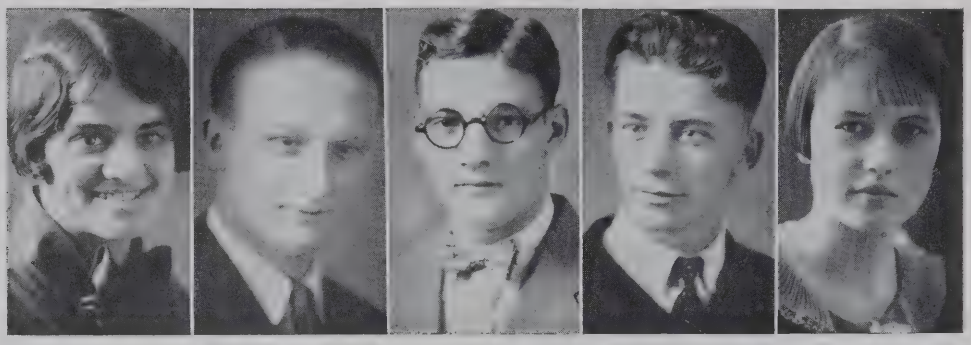
"If you like someone who is jolly,
Also serious and friendly and kind,
Just get acquainted with Esther
She has these qualities combined."

GRANT LINDSEY

(Withdrawn).

FLORAETTA FITCH, "Ham"

"I'll always have what can't be bought,
For I'll always have my own dear thoughts."



OLIVE DEIHL, "Olive Oyl"

"With quick lively step
Here she comes full of pep,
Ever eager to share
To do and to dare."

LEE THOMAS HOLLOPETER,
"Holly"

"B"arbara is his true love,
"A"lways he'll be true,
"R"ead the letters downward
"B"cause there's a secret for you."

JAMES WILLIAMS, "Jim"

"Life is a sea of troubles
O'er which we all must float,
The one regret I have with me
Is 'Oh for a stronger boat'."

CHESTER STARNER, "Chet"

"Light hair, eyes of blue,
Don't you wish you had them too?
Football player, basketball star
For all these he is known afar."

TREVA MOWRY, "Dale"

"With an Overland you came to me
In a car shod with tin,
Oh! What a terrible racket
Your car has always been!"

CLASS HISTORY

If the ancient saying about Freshies being green needs verifying we, the class of '26, can do so. Nevertheless, green bud blooms into a dignified rose and when we first planted our feet in high school we placed our hopes upon this thought. Of course, there were thorns from the time we started to rise upward into the atmosphere of life until now, when we are but in mid poise. Organization was deemed impossible until we, in our second year, knew something of the capabilities of our classmates and were more able to choose our officers from the group. Parties and all sorts of activities entered upon our list of labors. The third year found us as Juniors, enjoying the Junior-Senior banquet and a great many other occasions long to be remembered. Officers were again elected who did their work willingly and successfully.

We have gathered large portions of the fruit from the "Tree of Knowledge," and now, since we have eaten all these fruits, we are driven forth to go each a separate way. This way leads to lands unknown, but whatever our activities of life may be we shall attack them with the dauntless spirit which was learned at G. H. S.

—Ruth Ditmars, '26.

AUGURIUM SENIORUM

ACT I.

Scene 1

First Witch: When shall we three meet again? In thunder, lightning, or in rain?
Second Witch: In this same spot, to tell the fate of the class of '26.
Third Witch: All hail to the class of '26.

(Exit)

Scene 2

(In the same gloomy cave)

First Witch: Well, here we are again, who is the first to be named?
Second Witch: I have no choice I fear, but I think Georgia Bennett will be the first to hear.

(Enter Georgia Bennett)

Georgia: What means this and you three hags?
Witches: To reveal your fate from the mysterious bags.
Georgia: Since now you all have your way, please say what you have to say.
Witches (dancing hand in hand):
Your fame in a great orchestra will be widely said.
Until some day a shiek you wed.
Now please don't wish to hear any more
For all the fates have closed the door.

(Witches vanish)

Scene 3

Seniors: My dear Georgia, where have you been?
You look as though you were all in.
Georgia: If you had been there no doubt, You surely would know what it's all about.
As I was walking in the woods today
I came to a cave not far away,
Where were three witches standing at the gate
Ready to reveal anyone's fate.
Mine they told, but I will not tell
What they said, for that's all very well.
Seniors: What a strange experience,
Let's see about ours, ladies and gents.

ACT II.

Scene 1

(At the cave)

Seniors: How do you do, prophets of fate. What will you take for ours to relate?
Witches: My dears, my dears, three pieces of gold
Will take from you, your fates to unfold.
A young man here, Charles Swartout,
Will be second Paderewske without a doubt.
In a circus are Wendell Bowlby and Cloyde Brown,
The former a fatman, the latter a clown,
Harry Henizerling and Evelyn Miller
Will live in a palace with marble pilars.
John Muzzillo, we're sorry to say,
Is not destined long to stay,
For very shortly he will start
Back to Italy to gain his lost art.
Walter Hopkins will be a farmer,
Early to rise his wheat to garner.
George Mountz will be a preacher
With LaVon Wolf his devoted teacher.
Now Gerald Wiler, don't make a fuss,
For you shall be second Herodotus.
A very good man is Leo Ferry,
For he shall be boss of a milk dairy.
Raymond Rickard who with you does abide
Will take a Junior to be his bride.
Chester Starner will win great fame,
As first prize winner in Olympic games.
Leah Gehrum and Wilma Shreve,
Will be actresses, we believe.
Our Jason may not seek the golden Fleece,
But he shall be justice of the peace.
Our dearest Vivian after toil and strife,
Will finally become a minister's wife.
Ward Rickey, our little man,
Will teach Virgil as only he can.
Helen Summer shall win fame,
For the opera is her aim.
Lily Sliger and Elizabeth Monn
Will be the best housewives under the sun.
Children beware of Esther Hall.
For to be a teacher is her call.
As typist one shall win fame,
Ruth Ober is her name.
Harry Rahmer and Garner Keefe,
Will be coaches is our belief.
Earl McKinley and Harold Haynes,
Will both be presidents with lots of brains.
Olive Deihl and Esther Clark,
To travel Europe will be their lark.
A famous one is Louise Hart,
She'll give readings that'll make your eyes smart.
Lillian Beeber a milliner will be,
She'll make hats in the latest style, believe me.
One of our governors will be Hollis Breece,
And while he's there you'll have no peace.
Floraetta Fitch is our G. R. C. girl,
So we'll let her be secretary, then watch things whirl.
Lela Van Houten will be a dietitian to adore,
She'll make dishes that'll make you ask for more.
A very efficient man is Lee,
For a millionaire he's going to be.
Dorothy Johnson, our joy and pride,
Will teach Classic Myths far and wide.
Dolores Stoner and Ernest Meese,
Will do the Charleston from west to east.
Jimmy Williams and Ward West,
Will own a butcher shop, selling only the best.
All the kiddies will like Andy,
He'll be a confectioner, selling candy,
Our gym teacher will be Margaret Woodcox,
She'll make them beat Auburn by nine blocks.
Kathrine Sharpless will change her name
Before a minister to Mrs. McKain.
Ruth Ditmars after a brief vacation,
Will teach school as her occupation.
Marion Caffrey, may it be understood
That she'll learn acting in Hollywood.
Treva and Lucille, the fates say,
Will be old maids till they're old and gray.
One of the boys, Earl Graham,
As a pianist will win a great name.
Clinton Hamilton, your Garrett shiek,
Will go to Europe his fortune to seek.
And now, my dears, we've finished our story,
Of how you all shall win fame and glory.
So now please go back to your place
And let us alone to beseech the fates.
To learn what they have to say for the Juniors.
To be prepared when they are Seniors.

(Witches vanish)

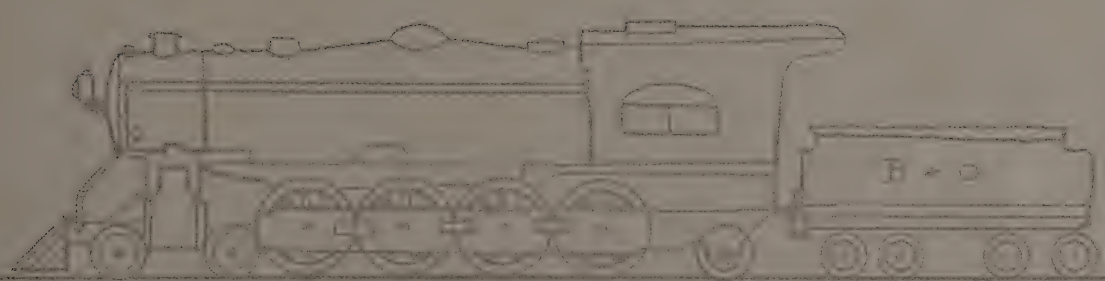
JUNIORS



JUNIOR CLASS POEM

The first tribute I can pay—
Unto our class upon this day,
Is just to tell you what we say—
"We do our bit."

We do our very, very best,
Never stop, or never rest,
It's serious—not a jest,
"We do our bit."

Oh, it's sacrifice, cheerful giving,
Always serving, patient living
That is the thing—"GRIT."
"We do our bit."

—Mary Edith Johns, '27.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

Green, fresh, and inexperienced was the class of '27 as it started on it long itinerary of high school life. Th members of the class served their apprenticeship in learning high school rules under the dutiful guidance of the most august Seniors. Being exceptional students the intense brightness of the green gradually gave way to a more mellow shade which paper manufacturers proclaim as "good for the eyes." Slowly but surely Latin, English, algebra and so on, filtered through the somewhat clogged sieve, termed the human brain. Then the mid-term exams approached, as approached the "Four Horsemen," each with his separate and trying subject to make a vain endeavor to flunk the greatest per cent by his allotted mode of torture.

For all its shortcomings this class is a sociable bunch, and when '26 mentioned a party each member accepted with alacrity even if it did require silver hair and hoop skirts as it was to be an "Old Man and Woman party." Providence placed this class in high school, because had it not been for our exceptional hardwood timber for both the gridiron and basketball field, the reputation of good G. H. S. would surely have been laid in the dust. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy so three months for a recuperative period were given to the mental toilers.

Every man worthy of promotion is raised, so when the Freshies returned they were no longer Freshmen but Sophomores. As Sophomores, the most sophisticated group of the four classes, they proceeded to verify the old conclusion with their egotistical ideas. During this year they added more stars to the crown of the faculty. The trials and tribulations of both instructors and instructed were such as to have daunted weaker hearts than possessed by this crew. Yet, despite the ill winds which swept us from port to port we had a barrel of fun. A weiner roast served as a welcome to the Freshies while many other frolics were held just for the sacred mystic inner circle of Sophomores. The Sophomore year was closed with no big splash but by a quiet receding into the background of frivolity and the taking up of the far more important duties of the business like Junior group.

The Juniors, their minds oppressed with the stupendous problem of giving the Seniors the proper shove into the big outside world, at once gained the concession to sell at the Garrett Fall Festival. The "Hot Dawg" stand went over big and revealed the latent talents of more than one loyal Junior. The discovery that Rome was not built in a day brought the Juniors down to solid facts and so they had to conjure up another method of beguiling Uncle Sam's Currency from Garrett Patrons. After much discussion the wholesale candy men appeared to be a rare find and all sorts of candies were obtained and sold at the home Basket Ball games. This was a slow way to acquire a "Look in" on Wall Street but it proved successful. There were parties galore for the Juniors and they utilized every opportunity to enjoy themselves as they took a breath between their "Shylock" motives. After many preliminaries the Banquet was given and the Juniors officiated in their appointed duties at the Commencement of their most reverent predecessors, the Seniors of '26, who gave their blessings to the Seniors of '27.

CLASS OF '28

On a bright autumn day in September,
As near as I remember,
A band of Freshies happy and gay
Plodded to school in a blithesome way.

And one by one the weeks rolled on,
Disappointments came, trials won.
Mixed with these hardships, joys appeared,
Which brightened our paths, our ways more cheered.

The first year passed, the second came,
Till now we have much knowledge gained;
We expect to gain more worldly lore,
Till we have passed two years or more.

So here's to the class of '28,
The very best that's in the state!
May the class prosper and never fall
Is wished by its classmates, one and all.

—Mary Wagner, '28.

CLASS HISTORY

A Class History, like a biography, is likely to resemble unspiked punch unless presented by an artist. So if this discourse fails to fill the reader with envy at not being a member of our class, it is not because our life has not been a happy, adventurous, and profitable one.

As we look back over the race track around which we have sprinted nearly two laps, we recall various stops that we have made along the way. Those were the times when we paused to snatch olive branches for events to be remembered. As freshmen, eighty-six of us assembled in the study room and began our career as Garrett High School students. When we came to high school we found everything so different from what we had been accustomed that we felt like strangers. For awhile we made all kinds of mistakes, but after a week we had learned the rules—or at least thought we had. Most of our mistakes were overlooked and we soon felt at home. On September ninth, nineteen twenty-five at eight-thirty o'clock, the curtain arose for the second time on our little comedy. Most of the actors were old and experienced, so we knew what to do. George Metcalf was given the responsibility of president; Harry Tuck, vice president; Rosella Moury, secretary; and Glenn Bishop, treasurer.

The Sophomore Class has many things for which to be praised. We are fighting hard to reach the goal—"Graduation"—and we are going to succeed.

FRESHMEN

THE CLASS OF '29

Listen, my children, and you shall hear,
The Freshman history of this year.

The eighth of September had come at last;
Ninety-two Freshmen formed the class;
Ninety-two greenies trembling with fear;
Ninety-two students from far and near.

First came a speech by the Superintendent,
Applauded by all who comprehended.
Learning the teachers and their ways,
Occupied the next four days.

The changing of classes was at an end,
For school in earnest had just begun.
Ninety-two Freshmen started to working
With never a thought of any one shirking.

October, November; vacation then,
The first of its kind since school began.
Thanksgiving Day was here at last,
And fully enjoyed by the Freshman class.

Fifteen weeks had now passed by,
Christmas vacation was drawing nigh.
The studies came to a sudden pause;
The students were waiting for Santa Claus.

Green as they were, a record was gained,
For on January first they all remained.
Freshies they were, but not very green,
They had grown wise from what they had seen.

Fifteen weeks increased by ten,
Freshman-Sophomore party then.
There a good time by all was had,
Although they behaved rather bad.

When your schooling is done,
And your work you've begun,
Let's hope you'll be a success
And always boost for G. H. S.

—Charles Feagler, '29.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

After spending a three months vacation at the beloved city called Rest, ninety-two Freshmen left the city, and boarded the train G. H. S., on September 8, to Success.

The conductors collected our tickets (names) and carefully put them away in the ticket box (office) where they are diligently watched. The train stopped at a number of places for water, and we enjoyed a few days rest. The most important cities were Fall Festival, Thanksgiving Junction, and Demosthian Initiation. Then we made no stops for a long time. Finally, when the continual sitting in those same seats became almost unbearable, the lights of a city could be seen in the distance. We sped steadily on until we reached th wonderful city of Christmas Vacation. Here we changed trains and boarded No. 1926.

On February 5, the train was flagged at Partyville by the Sophomores. The Freshman-Sophomore party was the biggest event on the journey thus far. On leaving, the Sophomores wished us a safe journey to our destination.

Some of the passengers expected to get off at Lincoln and at Washington Stations, but the engineer could not stop. A few have become wearied of the unchanging scenery of themes, algebra, Latin and examinations, but none have left us, because we can all see the light in the watch tower of Success, far, far up the track, into whose presence we will be ushered in 1929.

CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of 1926 of the city of Garrett, County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, U. S. A., being of exceptionally sound mind and kindly disposition, desire, as the time draws nearer when all of us shall leave the peace and quiet of high school life for the bitter storms of the wide world, to somewhat compensate those left behind for our incalculable loss, do hereby make this, our last will and testament:

To the Faculty we will the everlasting love and respect of the entire class.

To the Juniors we will the use of the Chemistry Laboratory, hoping they work as earnestly and diligently as we did during the hours imprisoned there.

To the Sophomores we will the peace and harmony which has always prevailed at our class meetings.

To the Freshmen we will the esteem of the other classes which heretofore belonged only to the Seniors.

Unto the following we bequeath our individual hobbies and oddities:

To Roscoe Zimmerman we will Ward Rickey's ability to get A's, providing Roscoe does not try to better Ward's record.

To Chet Treesh, Hollis Breece's monocle and other paraphernalia hoping it is as amusing to Chet as it has been to Hollis.

To Sterling Ward the "I don't know" of Ernest Meese.

To Edith Houser the abhorence and dislike for men of Evelyn Miller.

To Ilif Deihl all Leah Gehrum's old "crushes" as she has no more use for them.

To Sport Hoyles, the genius of Lee Hollopeter as a mathematician, if he will promise not to burn too much midnight oil.

To Jessie Dull the art of drawing teachers' pictures owned by Garner Keefe.

To Dale Loutzenheiser and William Mault, the tiny legs and stature of Walter Hopkins.

To Marcia and Maxine Wells, Louise Hart's secret diet to reduce.

To Wilford Richmond, the stature of George Mountz.

To Fairy Atkins the very interesting and charming manners of Vivian Andrews.

To Robert Brown the initiative and ability of Georgia Bennett to play the ivories.

To Roy Burtch the thinness and tallness of Wendell Bowlby.

To Helen Brown, the clean and unsoiled tardy record of Lillian Beeber.

To LaMar Creeger, Clinton's position as "Ladies' Man" on the condition that LaMar caters to them all as Clinton did.

To Georgia Coburn, the rouge and the efficient chauffeur service of Marian Caffery.

To Woodward Fuller and Fred Groscop, the quietness and originality of Earl Graham.

To Evelyn Elam, the integrity and loyalty to class and friends of Floraetta Fitch.

To Juanita Eldridge, the small stride and intelligence of Leo Ferry.

To Mary Edyth Johns, the leadership and benevolent sunshine of Dorothy Johnson.

To William Knisley, the heartbreaking ability of Harry Heinzerling.

To Wayne Kemp, the smashing record in car driving of Harold Haynes.

To Wilma Loutzenheiser, the argumentative force of Elizabeth Monn.

To Vaughn McBride and Murray McCullough, the artistic mannerisms of Jason Luttman.

To Marguerite Vogeding, the peppy and ladylike Charlestoning of Margaret Witherspoon.

To Myrtle Mitchell, the ridiculous giggle and faint heart of Wilma Shreve.

To Pearl Miller, the enjoyable and loving disposition of Lucille Kelham.

To Russell Nicholson, the constancy and life as a hen-pecked husband called Raymond Rickard.

To Bob Thompson, the happy vim of Ward West.

To Madeline Tuck, the many love notes, left behind in the desk of LaVon Wolf.

To Irene Starner, the curly locks and the Auburn shieks of Delores Stoner.

To Edith Wilmot, the kindness and the loyalty to class of Lela VanHouten.

In witness according, Witness our hands and seals this ninth day of March in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, in Room eight of the Garrett High School.

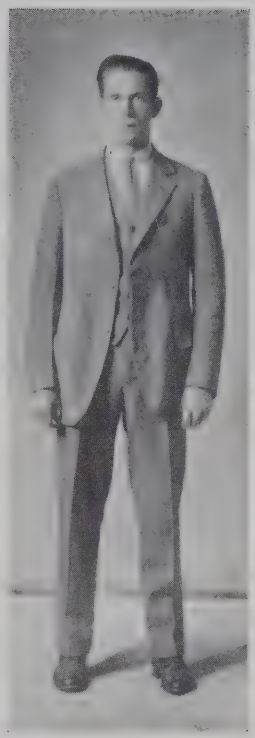
ATHLETICS

OUR COACHES



Due to the public interest, athletics of a winning caliber must be developed, and in order to do this character and ideals worthy of a true citizen must be the first consideration. These problems face the athletic directors either of high schools or of universities. On the surface it appears that we are directing our efforts entirely toward the production of a winning team. If this were true our efforts would vanish like dew before the sun. We are looking toward something far more vital than a winning team. We work for loyalty, cooperation, fair-play, and along with these most important of all, Americanism.

There is no activity that is more democratic than are athltics. No credit is given for social standing. Everyone is rewarded according to the price he pays, and success comes only to those who pay, accordingly, to the rule of the game.

Certainly there is no more efficient way of teaching true citizenship than through our athletics. So may the people view this correctly and always keep this goal in mind.

COACH STANLEY.

When one stops to think of the past Basket Ball season one must take into consideration many things in determining its success. Countless teams have attained the realistic goal of having many victories to their credit, but have they attained the idealistic goal—that for which real athletes at heart are working? At this goal we find true sportsmanship, respect for fellow-athletes, physical development and honesty. When one works for these four things he can feel that the idealistic goal has been reached.

In many cases it is not for outsiders to judge on many of these points. If a player can answer for himself, that he has received benefit from the work so much as to have attained only a part of the idealistic goal, then we can feel that our efforts and time were well spent.

COACH McDONALD.

Coach Stanley, Sithen, Swartout, Luttman, Thompson, Starner, Rickard, Groscup, Williams, Keefe, Burtch, Manager Cartwright.

Nash, Lewellyn, Nickolson, Holmes, Karr, Heinzerling, Metcalf, Traster.

Fuller, Cramer, Hamilton, Capt. Hollopeter, Capt.-Elect Sapp, Byanski, Hinklin, Goodson.

The spirit of the football squad of 1925 has never been excelled in loyalty and sportsmanship in G. H. S. This is clearly shown by the faithful cooperation and determination of the players. During the season the subs have gained much experience and are waiting, ready to fill the holes left in the line by graduation.

The schedule for next year is now complete. Very many hard games are on the program. However, this will give the team a chance to show its ability and strength.

Merwood Sapp, star quarterback, is captain of the team next year and is a very capable leader. He has always been among the leaders of the boys and will prove himself to be a real captain.

I, as a representative of the 1925 team, wish to the team of 1926 all the possible success they can obtain.

Lee Thomas Hollopeter, '26.

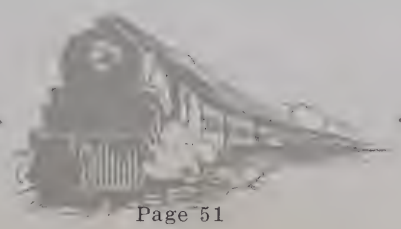
REVIEW OF THE 1925 FOOTBALL SEASON

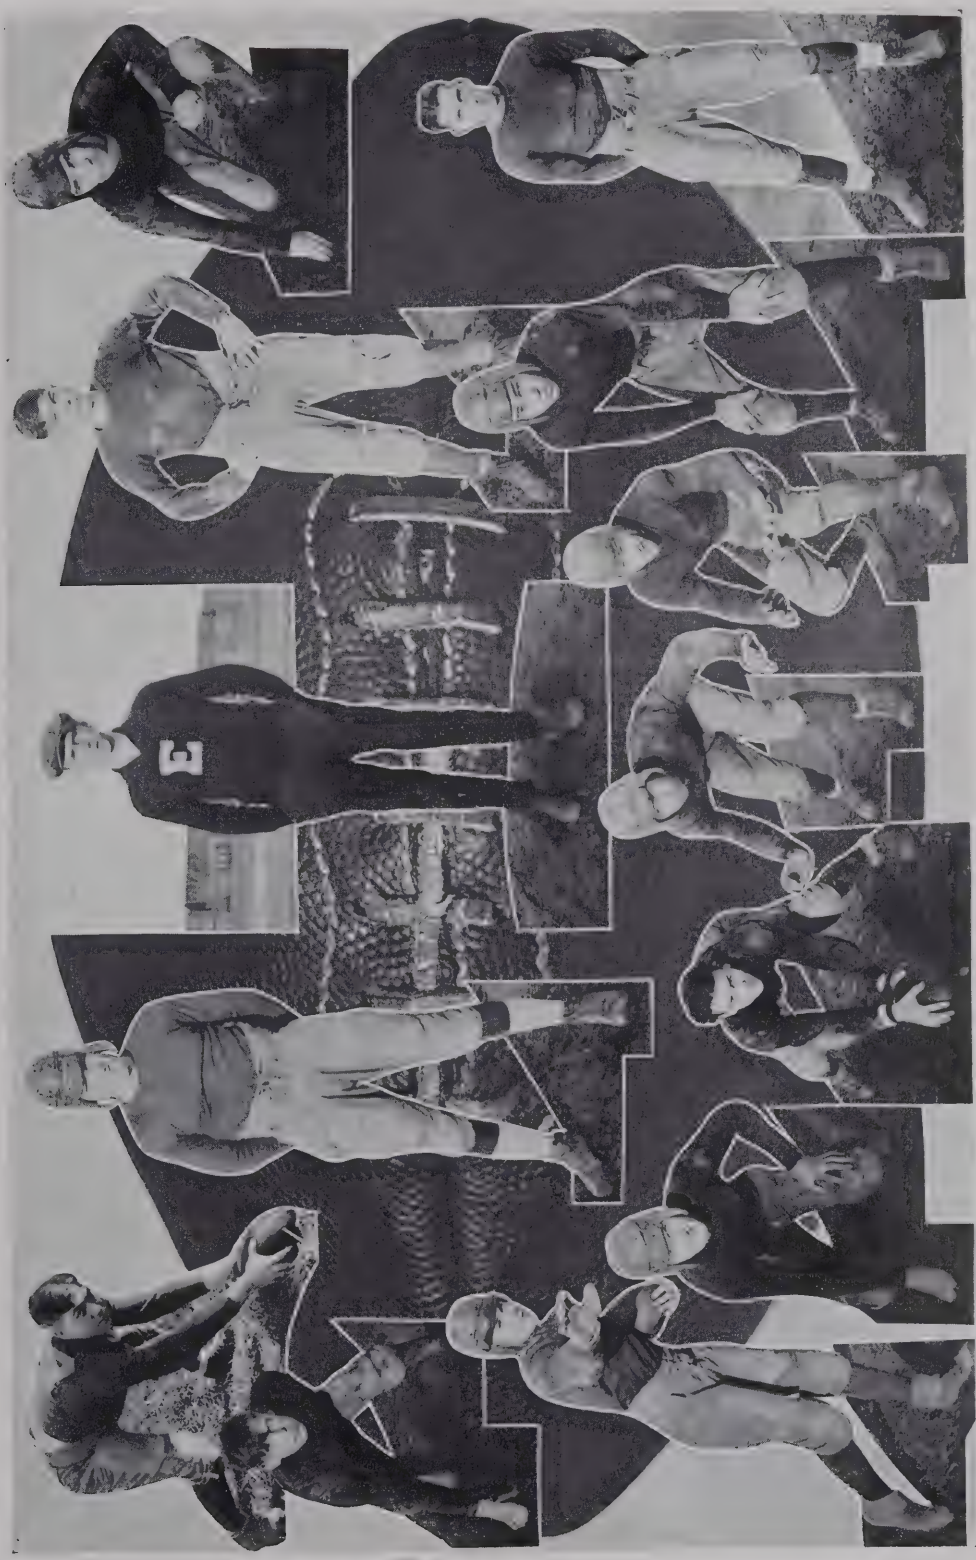
The problem which confronted the coach at the beginning of the season was to find linemen who were capable of filling the great holes in the line caused by graduation of the 1924 linesmen. This proved, however, to be only a small matter for him because the men who came out had the fighting spirit, and the gaps were soon filled.

The schedule of the season was a difficult one, it being full of hardships and breaks. One of the most unpleasant handicaps was the bad weather in which all but three of the games were played. The first game was played with Sturgis. It was a thriller from start to finish with both teams displaying good form. However, things could not be settled and the game ended in a 6 to 6 tie. The second game was played with the strong team of South Side High School of Fort Wayne. It proved to be too strong for the locals and we went down in defeat 20 to 0. LaPorte was our next foe. Here we sure did tear up things and when the final whistle blew we found the game to be ours after a desperate struggle, with a score of 9 to 6. Bluffton proved to be easy meat and we won from them 47 to 0 in a very uninteresting game. Then our closest rival, Auburn, who was bound to beat us, went back home quite chagrined carrying with her the 0 in the score of 12 to 0. Then came slush and mud. We played Decatur and were beaten. The second team was used throughout the game. The result was 6 to 0. Edon next invaded our territory. It was another slushy day, and the teams were slowed up considerably. However, we plowed through to a 12 to 0 victory. Montpelier had little trouble with us and defeated us 21 to 0. Then we journeyed to Elkhart. Here we played one of our best games. However, the Elkhart team was too strong for us and beat us 33 to 0. In the last game, Defiance faced us. It was a thriller with the final score being a tie, 0 to 0.

We wish to thank the coach for the splendid support and encouragement he gave us.

—Harry Rahmer.





The season of '25 and '26 was very successful, as most people look at it. We won most of our games and those that we did lose, we left the town with the impression of our "fighting team."

All this success would not have been possible had it not been for the aid of the business men of Garrett. They backed us through defeat or victory, always with the same amount of confidence.

This season the squad has been very sincere. Battling through all sorts of breaks, the subs as well as the varsity men displayed their best cooperation and sportsmanship.

Coach Stanley has helped us through thick and thin, always giving us his best cooperation and encouragement. He was a great factor in making the team what it was and deserves much praise.

George Mountz, '26.

At the start of the season the outlook was very poor. Nevertheless, with the "do or die" spirit that all G. H. S. students take in viewing their battles, the girls organized their team. Only two regulars from the 1924-25 season were back in uniform. The team was small and inexperienced. However, they fought and played as hard as any of the better teams do.

Although, this season was not as sucessful as it might have been, the G. H. S. rooters can look forward to next year with the Maroon and Blue represented by a well-organized and experienced team. It will seek honors for G. H. S. as it has in the past.

Pauline Dirr, '27.

REVIEW OF THE BASKET BALL SEASON

The Maroon and Blue netmen started the season of 1925 and 1926 with a great handicap. There were many of the regular players on the football squad, who could not report for practice, and also many of the star players of the 1924 and 1925 team had graduated. This did not daunt the spirits of the men who reported for practice and they soon built a team which was capable of doing things.

The season as a whole was a successful one. The first game was a defeat. This was handed to us by the Butler Hi crew. However, this did not discourage the team for it made quick work of the next three games, defeating Decatur, Butler, and Waterloo by large margins. Then another defeat was suffered at the hands of the strong Fremont team. With much vim our men captured four more games in short order, defeating our old rivals, Auburn, 23 to 20, Bluffton, Angola, and the Alumni. Then came another flaw, a defeat at the hands of the LaPorte team. This was no disgrace, though, as she has a real team which beat us only 8 points. Waterloo was our next foe and we defeated her by a great score. The South Side game was a whiz. Our opponents started with a great rush but it was not to last long, for we won 24 to 22. That game was a thriller and those who missed it lost the opportunity in seeing a great game. In the county tourney we walked through Spencerville and Butler very easily, but we were defeated in the finals by Auburn 30 to 25. Once more on our straight schedule, we found the way much harder. In seven games we only won two. We were defeated in this last stretch by Decatur, Berne, Lancaster, Auburn, and Walkerton. We defeated the Fremont and Angola teams which earlier in the season had defeated us.

In the Sectional Tourney we beat Ashley, but we were beaten in the semi-finals by Auburn 11 to 10. This was a thrilling game from start to finish for the winner was in doubt all the way. However, the flashy teamwork of the county seat lads spelled defeat for G. H. S. in the last moment of the game.

This year the team will be hit very hard by graduation. The regulars who will be lost are Capt. Mountz, Starner, Keefe, Luttman and Hollopeter. We have many staunch dependables in the sub ranks, however, and feel that G. H. S. will be well represented in the basket ball world of 1927.

—Harry Rahmer, '26.

REVIEW OF GIRLS' BASKET BALL 1925-26

The girls on the Basket Ball team deserve much praise for their work this year. From the very first they were handicapped as they were doubtful whether basket ball for G. H. S. girls would exist, until Mr. Painter was interviewed and his support was pledged. Miss McDonald volunteered to coach the team because she was deeply interested in basket ball for Garrett High School girls.

A meeting was held in the assembly room one afternoon and all girls interested in basket ball attended. Several speeches were made by various mmbers of the faculty and by the new coach. Practice began a short time later and many girls reported, with only two players from the former team eligible. From this untried material the team was selected. We not only had a new team but also new suits, of which we were very proud, were presented to us.

The girls will never forget the good times, "feeds," trips, parties, and the games they have enjoyed during the past season. We even invade a Valentine dance at Decatur after the Beren game, but that didn't lower our resistance against Lancaster the next night.

We were defeated by only two schools, Auburn and Decatur. We hope that next year Garrett will be able to boast of an undefeated team. This can be accomplished only by the cooperation and interest of the public and by high school spirit and support.

JUNIOR HI BASKET BALL

When coaches throughout the country were issuing calls for men to engage in the game of Basket Ball, Coach Woodcox tuned in and called for candidates for the Junior High Basket Ball Team. Many boys responded and some valuable material was discovered at the first practice. In a short time the team was organized and elected as its captain, Ted Einkoff, who proved to be a capable leader as well as a good player. At first the team was somewhat discouraged by the breaks which it received and also by the loss of the first few games, though not minding this, the boys settled down to harder work, and in a short time were winning games as only champions do.

During the season the squad played 27 games, 18 of which were victories, making a percentage of .667. It scored 623 points to the opponents 379. The team has gained very much experience and the players entering high school next year will be of much value to the Maroon and Blue net team.

JUNIOR HI BASKET BALL SQUAD

Basket ball for Junior High girls was organized this year for the first time in the history of the school. Many candidates responded to the call issued by Coach Higgins, and soon a team was formed which deserves much credit. The fact that all through the season they won only four games out of thirteen does not necessarily spell failure. The team was inexperienced and knew very little about the fundamentals and technique of the game. It scheduled games with nearby towns who had been playing the game for several seasons. The girls had plenty of pep and fight throughout the season, and gave many of their opponents a tough battle. Very many promising players were discovered and will be of great value to the future high school team.

George Metcalf, Harold Clady, Harry Heinzerling, Roy Burtch, Coach Stanley

TRACK

Coach Stanley issued a call for candidates April 10 and many fellows responded. After a few evenings of practice much valuable material was discovered.

Many veterans from the last year's team are back in suits and are performing in great shape. Among the men who show up best are Heinzerling, in the 100 and 220; Starner, in the pole vault; Mountz, in high jump; Roy Burtch, in hurdles; Metcalf, in the distance runs and Seifert in the shot put.

Much is expected from these men and they should win many laurels for Garrett before the season ends.

The schedule for the year is as follows:

April 24, Central there.

May 1, Goshen there.

MAROON AND BLUE

The Maroon and Blue, one of the institutions which we will cherish long after we have forgotten the solution of most of the knotty problems with which we struggle, appears on Friday noon twice each month. With what eager anticipation we scan through the pages looking for our names; and then with more deliberation we carefully devour the contents.

To estimate the value of this paper to our school and community would be difficult. In the school it is an aid in creating and stimulating school spirit; it is an outlet for much literary fervor; it furnishes a means whereby we are kept in touch with club activities and individual achievements; pupils and teachers are brought in closer contact with each other through its columns. Then, too, the members of the staff have an opportunity to develop executive ability and traits of real leadership. In the community the school paper renders both pleasure and service. Parents are kept in touch with the school activities of their children, and business men are given an opportunity of meeting patron and customer through the advertising section. Wise, indeed, is the business man who sees through this medium a worth while investment, for friendships made with youth are lasting and of long duration.

Since the success or failure of individual numbers depends largely upon the student body, school spirit is fostered. What pupil would not be willing to have a paper go out into other schools which did not represent effort on the part of our school? The publication of news concerning the achievements of groups and of individuals diffuses interest throughout the school. Editorials oftentimes call our attention to things, which we perhaps know, yet on which we have not thought seriously. As a means of developing school spirit the publication of a good school paper can not be beaten.

JUNIOR-SENIOR DEMOSTHIAN

The Junior-Senior section of the Demosthian club organized this year with a membership of fifty-two. The purpose of this club is to promote better standards of public speaking and dramatic art in our High school.

The club made a contract with the Maroon and Blue to present a series of plays this year for the benefit of the school paper. One program was given on December 15, 1925. This entertainment consisted of three one act plays. The plays given were "The Silent System," "Who Kissed Barbara," and "Local and Long Distance." This program was a huge success. The public is looking forward to the rest of this series of entertainments. The officers for this year are:

President ..... Clinton Hamilton
Vice President ..... Louise Hart
Secretary ..... Floraetta Fitch
Treasurer ..... Lela VanHouten

Miss Davis is supervisor of the club

Mary Schulthess, Dorothy Jones, Mary Edith Haverstick, Howard Watts, Dora Alice Dean, Eleanor Brown, Hazel Harvey

FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE DEMOSTHIAN

Miss Davis again has charge of the Freshman-Sophomore section of Demosthian. The club is composed of forty members. During the school year 1925-26 many programs were planned and worked out. Several parties were given. Lucille Breckbill was elected secretary but during her illness Dora Alice Dean acted as secretary pro-tem. The officers of the club are:

President ..... Hazel Harvey
Secretary ..... Lucille Breckbill
Treasurer ..... Marion Elson

Marguerite Vogeding, Miss VanFleit, Esther Clark, Dora Alice Dean
Ruth Zimmerman, Luella Yingling, Iolene Friend, Thais Hamilton
Charlotte Woodcock, Mary Mies, Dorothy Johnson

THE LATIN CLUB

The Latin club of Garrett High School was organized by Miss Bertha Adams in 1920. The club has continued during the following years and much interest is shown.

This year under the competent supervision of Miss VanFleit, the club has progressed rapidly. The novel "Caesar and His Friends" was studied, and special reports concerning Roman customs and life were enjoyed. At the Fall Festival a Latin exhibit was given consisting of Latin primers, posters, maps, derivative note books and books illustrating Vergil's Aeneid.

The club has enjoyed many social events at the homes of the various members. The officers for this year are:

President ..... Dorothy Johnson
Vice President ..... Esther Clark
Secretary ..... Thais Hamilton

THE HOUSEHOLD ARTS CLUB

The Household Arts Club was organized this year with Miss McKinley as supervisor. The club is composed of Freshman girls. The course of study is taken from Emily Post's "Blue Book of Social Usage." Among the main points studied are: introductions, greetings, conversation, salutations, and many other things necessary to social life. The members have found it very useful and would like to take an advanced course.

HI-Y CLUB

The Hi-Y Club has been a great success this year. The members enjoyed many parties, the main events of the year were the party at Macks, boy those eats! and the Father and Son Banquet. It was a great pleasure to entertain our fathers in such a manner.

The Club had meetings every other Monday evening, the first of the evening would be devoted to the business of the Club and the latter part to recreation and social. Pot-lucks were our features.

The members were highly entertained by the Girls Reserve. The girls sure know how to be hostesses, they also know what is good to eat.

We wish great success to the Club next year and hope it will be our privilege to be guests of the Club some time.

GIRL RESERVE CLUB

The Girl Reserve Club of the Garrett High School endeavors to bring out the three-fold development of a girl's life—mind, spirit and body. This organization was formed two years ago, and under the supervision of Miss Evard, was affiliated with the National Y. W. C. A. at the end of the first year.

During the 1925-26 school year Girl Reserve work proceeded very rapidly under the leadership of the cabinet: Floraetta Fitch, president; Eleanor Brown, vice-president; Edith Houser, secretary; Evelyn Elam, treasurer; Alverta Steward, chairman of program committee; Mildred Alley, chairman of social committee; Magaret Woodcock, chairman of service committee.

We have been well represented at Conferences for Margaret Woodcock attended the Summer Conference at Camp Grey, Sangatuck, Michigan; Floraetta Fitch, Mildred Alley, Eleanor Brown, Margaret Woodcock, and Miss Evard attended the Winter Conference at South Bend; and Miss Evard attended the Adult Guidance Conference at Indianapolis.

The visits of Miss Hazel Belle Withrow, national field secretary, has given much help and inspiration to our club.

Social events have not been lacking. One of the most successful events was the Mother and Daughter Banquet which was given in the spring soon after the installation of the Cabinet. Mrs. Arthur Johns entertained with a Hallowe'en Party; the Kendallville Girl Reserves were our guests at a supper and the Recognition Service which followed; Miss Groscup gave a Christmas Party, at which we dressed dolls furnished by the Tri Kappa Sorority; we enjoyed a Valentine Party as guests of the Kendallville Girl Reserves.

Finances are important! We had a sandwich sale!!! What a success!!!

Officers for 1926-27 are: Alverta Steward, president; Mildred Alley, vice-president; Thais Hamilton, secretary; Edith Houser, treasurer; Mary Edythe Johns, chairman of the social committee; Hazel Harvey, chairman of the service committee; Ruth Zimmerman, chairman of the social committee.

The new cabinet is looking forward to a year brimful of pep, work, and fun.

AGRICULTURE CLUB

The Agriculture Club began its work last fall under the direction of Mr. Eberhart. Plans for the year's work were outlined and the following officers were elected: Wayne Sherrick, president; Frank Yarde, vice-president; Victor Walters, secretary; and Dale Treesh, treasurer.

The club organized a basket ball team and played with a number of nearby schools. Some stag parties were enjoyed and the presence of the girls was shown to be unnecessary by the quality of the cooking which the boys demonstrated. Early in the spring the group was divided into two sides and a rodent contest started. The high point side was to receive a party. The Club again undertook the project of caring for the County Farm orchard.

A trip will be made to Purdue this spring for the purpose of attending the annual Boys and Girls Club Round-up. This trip always stimulates interest in Agriculture and encourages a desire to learn the new and better methods of farming. It is hoped that it will encourage many of them to later attend the University.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

SPONSOR: MISS HARVEY

Business is business! That's why this club was organized last year. With twenty-six members this year, meetings are held Monday nights after school, with a social evening every few weeks. We were delightfully entertained in the homes of Russel Alford, and Edith and Robert Houser.

Extra features are special speakers. A sunshine box was prepared and sent to one member, Wayne Kemp, while he was in the hospital at Rochester, Minnesota, in January.

The officers are:

Russel Alford .....President
Harold Haynes .....Vice President
Warren Beehler .....Secretary-Treasurer
Evelyn Elam .....News Reporter

Mr. Sidebottom, Glen Bishop, Mr. Black
Ben Casebeer, Harry Goodson, Harry Cramer, Ward Rickey
Wendell Bowlby, Harold Haynes, Earl Graham

RADIO-SCIENCE CLUB

The Radio-Science Club was organized this year under the co-supervision of Mr. Black and Mr. Sidebottom. At the organization meeting, Wendell Bowlby was elected our president and he has proved to be a most efficient officer. The purpose of the club is to create an interest in all sorts of sciences—particularly physics and chemistry which are the sciences most strongly emphasized in high schools and also to study the newly discovered science, radio.

Many interesting meetings have been held during the year and at this writing, a party is planned at which all present will be required to eat from crucibles—the participants feeding themselves, not with the customary fork—or in some cases the knife, especially if eating peas—but with dafflagrating spoons.

ORCHESTRA

The orchestra this year has proved to be an enjoyable success. The number of members has greatly increased over former years. Due to other activities the orchestra practice was somewhat interrupted.

The highest spirit and enthusiasm were shown this year by the people of this musical organization. Under the leadership of Miss Gregory and her remarkable instructing qualities and with the untiring efforts of the musicians, the orchestra could be naught else but successful. However, besides the intense pleasures obtained, we believe that the members gained very much practical knowledge from their practices and entertainments.

The orchestra made its first appearance at the Senior Class play, and as usual, contributed its share to the commencement exercises.

Alverta Steward, Helen Brown, Hazel Harvey, Marguerite Vogeding, Helen Chisholm, Berneice Steward, Mary Cartwright, Edith Wilmont, Ilif Deihl, Esther Kennedy, Daphene Burns

GIRLS GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club, again under the sponsorship of Miss Gregory, made progress this year. At the beginning Miss Gregory called together the old members of the Club and then from a number of other applicants, chose forty-five girls to form the club. Our officers for the year were: President, Kathryn Sharpless; Vice-President, Dolores Stoner; Secretary, Louise Hart; 1st, Librarian, Mary McKinley; 2nd Librarian, Hazel Harvey.

During the time the Club worked the following songs were learned: Sweet O' The Year, The Pancake Song, The Waters of Minnetonka, Around the Gypsy Fires, Approach of Night, and Mighty Lak a Rose. On these the Club members worked diligently until their work was stopped by the Chorus, of 24 voices, which represented Garrett in the contests.

The Glee Club was also important for the members that it furnished for the other musical activities. Among these were the Girl's Double Quartette, the girls for the Double Mixed Quartette, and most of the important characters for the Operetta "Once in a Blue Moon," which was directed by Miss Gregory. On the whole, the year for the Glee Club has been one of success.

THE BOYS' GLEE CLUB

The Boys' Glee Club, which has been an organization in Garrett High School for several years, was again organized at the beginning of this year. Under the competent supervision of Miss Gregory the boys worked hard and accomplished much. You'd be surprised how they can sing!

Due to many handicaps the club was not able to appear before the public this year, but it is looking forward to much publicity in the near future.

GIRLS' DOUBLE QUARTETTE

One of the novel features of our Musical Department this year was its Girls' Double Quartette. The rapid progress and huge success of the quartette were due to the intense interest and reliability of the girls. Their practices were held every noon and the girls proved very punctual and worked earnestly. These efforts were repaid fully when their public presentations were so successful.

A TRIBUTE TO THE EMBLEM OF THE U. S. A.

The Eagle is a monarch of birds,
They crowned him long ago
With a throne of leaves and a
Robe as white as snow.

The Eagle wins and holds his place,
He flies to heaven and under the hill
He seems to be nourished on sunbeams
And a sound of a voice that is still.

THE PROPHECY CONCERNING ROME

During all the ages of mankind there has never been a nation which surpassed Rome in the art of conquering and governing. To learn the reason for this one would only need to travel back to an ancient hall-gate and there would see standing before a sightless seer, Romulus with his arms red to the elbows and on a broad sworn in his hand a head, which we would recognize as his uncle's. Drawing closer one would hear the seer saying something like this:

"From sunrise unto sunset
All the earth shall hear thy fame
A glorious city thou shall build
And name it by thy name.
And there, unquenched through all
Like Vesta's sacred fire the ages,
Shall live the spirit of thy nurse,
The spirit of thy sire."

We all know that Romulus did build a city and named it by his name. This city grew and grew until at last it became a great nation, lasting unquenched through many ages, having the spirit of Romulus, the spirit of "Mars," his sire. Every nation must have its fall and when the people of Rome were given too much rope, they hanged themselves by their luxurious lives.

If Silence Were Golden He'd Be Reckoned in Carats

WITH a shudder MacGregor threw the banknotes on the floor. Had he been in right mind the last twenty-four hours? He, reliable and honest, with whom integrity was a religion—had committed burglary! Hazily he remembered forcing the door of the jewelry store and robbing the safe of hundreds and hundreds of dollars. All because the doctor had told him his wife could be saved only by a difficult, therefore costly, operation. And now, by means of that stolen money his wife was in the hospital. Conscience stricken, MacGregor paced the floor and morning found him near a nervous breakdown.

The news of the robbery was abroad. As election day was near Marshall Otey was not particular just who was arrested—therefore a young vagabond, whose triumphant arrival via the top of a freight train had been the unwearing gossip of the town, was booked for prison. Since no citizen of the town would be so disreputable, surely it must be some one from without. O'Brian had money, for did he not give the newsboy two cents extra for a paper and Blind Bertha, the town's mendicant, a coin suspiciously like a dollar?

Mickey O'Brian shifted to a more comfortable position on the old bench. Certainly the town could have made it more comfortable, but then perhaps they had not even remotely expected such a celebrated arrival. Mickey's route West had been a routine of jails, one more or less made no difference. He coughed and reviewed the situation.

Years ago he had been a "Somebody." He laughed at the seeming impossibility. Then came the war. He had come out of it with a bad dose of gas and tuberculosis had set in his weakened lungs. He arrived home and finding the household and his mother dead started West on the top of a freight train. Certainly not a heroic departure. And here he was, accused of a theft he had never committed. He coughed again. If that deuced cough kept on they'd have a dead prisoner soon. Of course it was all right to die in a penitentiary but an unconspicuous, county jail! Had he robbed anything it would have been on a bigger scale than a small town jewelry store. The U. S. mint had always appeared especially alluring to him.

He heard a key turn in the lock and hastened to the best chair. Possession was nine points of the law even in the prison. With a "can't you see I'm busy" air he turned toward the intruders. This air did not seem to impress them.

With a curt nod of dismissal to the jailer, MacGregor turned his pale and haggard face to Mickey O'Brian. Half an hour later MacGregor went slowly home.

"Well he's got a wife and bairns and I have—nothing. I'll be dead soon anyway," reasoned Mickey, "and maybe I'll see old Donovon—my true pal who died in that last famous stand. Shure and we made history that day." Pugnacious Mickey gripped the edge of the bench as he thought of the charge. Torn and mutilated, surrounded by millions of fighting sons of the devil himself, they had carried the flag through and back again. Sons of Ireland and the United States hand in hand, fell fighting that day. Mickey sighed as he remembered how Donovon, chuckling over a rare joke, went West.

If he could die like Larry—why there was Larry Donovon now. The same happy go lucky, devil may care old pal, holding out his hands and Faith! there was Michael, he had lost a leg in the charge, with Old Glory—the same that he had followed into Hell. Drawn up at attention, rank upon rank, stood those soldiers of the charge awaiting his arrival. Somehow it wasn't so hard to die after all.

Mickey's soul, arm in arm with Donovon and old Michael slowly faded, borne up by a last ray of the setting sun.

"I al'ays gets my man," Marshal Otey boasted, as he read the signed confession of Mickey O'Brian, but God, MacGregor, and Mickey know the joke's on the Marshal and somewhere He is pinning a Croix de Guerre on Mickey's faded khaki breast.

OUR FAREWELL

See, our tears are nearly starting,
We dare not speak of much success,
We want a blessing for our parting
With the dear old G. H. S.
We want no speedy future,
But that we should slowly rise,
If you want to see this only,
Look deep into our eyes.

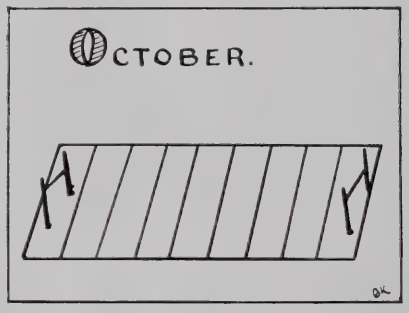
We will taste the joy and sorrow
After leaving our G. H. S.
These hours have firmly moulded
Our classmates sweet caress;
And we love you—you have made us
You have shown us worth in strife,
As you faithfully have given us,
Strength to make our step in life.

Farewell, O school, much dearer
Than we ever could have thought,
For commencement brings us nearer
To the firm lesson thou has taught.
And as in life's greatest battle
Our way we slowly tread,
We know our future lies before us,
Behind is the Dear Old G. H. S.

—Lillie Sliger, '26.

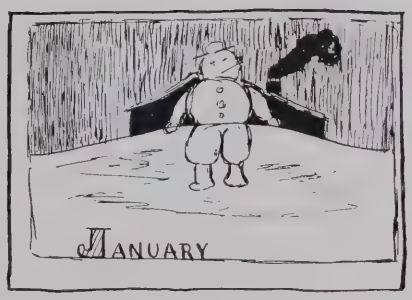
8—School opens with a bang. My! Don't those Freshies hurt ones eyes?
9—Speech from the new Supt. Parade of the new teachers.
10—Wonder why everyone has such beautiful complexions?
11—We hear that Mr. Black and Miss Harvey find each other satisfactory.
12—Saturday—and rest.
13—Everybody goes to the Midway. Aren't the Michigan Men hot? Zowie!
14—My! Isn't everything slow?
15—Tuesday—don't those Camp Fire Girls make things hum?
16—Wonder who our football star will be this year? 'Twill be hard to choose.
17—"Ahem! Here comes Mr. Painter. Mark chalk!"
18—Friday—My!
19—Saturday—everyone goes to Midway.
20—Sunday—and all the fellows out of town.
21—Aren't you tired?
22—Same old drudge.
23—Whew! Isn't it hot?
24—Wish school was a store—get an afternoon off.
25—The Seniors are getting worried because they aren't organized.
26—More heat!
27—Sunday—and DATES.
28—Blue Monday.
29—Same old thing over and over.
30—Wednesday—blah!

1—Whee! 'Nother month gone.
2—Clinton all puffed up—he's president of the Senior Class.
3—We play LaPorte. Win?? Sure—9 to 6.
5—The boys look rather wan, don't they?
6.—Orchestra started today.
7.—Glee Club organized. Kate Sharpless president.
8—Demosthian begun. My! Everything starts at once, doesn't it?
10—We play Bluffton. Win? Naturally—47 to 0.
12—Wonder why everyone looks so sleepy?—I think we need a vacation.
13—No—it's only Tuesday and the thirteenth.
14—Parties. Parties. Parties. P-A-R-T-I-E-S.
15.—Oh, that Glee Club! It will be good SOME DAY.
16—Pep meeting—lots of boys, lots of girls, lots of pep. We beat Edon—12 to 0. RAIN.
17—We play Decatur. Wonder why Miss Gregory is so nervous?
19—We hear that Peg Treesh still feels the effects of the accident. Can't you drive any better, Clara?
22, 23, 24—Vacation.
25—Bet old Hoody feels punk!
26—The Auburn Gang didn't come to Garrett for once.
27—We hear that W. B. "introduced" Lee and her sisters to "Bill" Boardman. Hot man, Lee?
28—Are you wearing clothes from the rummage sale, Dot? Boys begin basket ball practice.
29—Of all the weird costumes seen at nite. We hear that the Camp had only three "men" at their backward party—a sailor, a shiek, and a butler.
30—P-E-P.



1—Wilford R. is walking around like he was owner of the school. Of course, he has reason—he is president of the Junior class.
3—Same old drudgery.
4—Many new cases develop—Mary and Wayne continue.
6—Not much doing.
7—We do NOT play K'ville. What a shame!
8—Orchestra—why the noise is enuff to kill a cat.
9—Can't the Glee Club howl?
11—Demosthian—more big parties planned.
14—We play Montpelier.
15—DEAD.
20—Everyone's getting their mouths set.
21—Elkhart. Um. Smell that cooking?
25—Hooray! Vacation and TURKEY!

1—Hasn't the time gone fast?
2—Is Lela still writing to Joe?
6—Not much excitement.
16, 17, 18, 19, 20—Lotta peoples' birthdays.
22—Everyone's gettin' thrilled.
23—We hear that Harold had to get two presents.
25—Santa himself. "Oh, isn't that sweet?"
31—Goodbye, '25—you've been awful nice to us!



4—School—and we know that Harold is peeved. Why? A certain Senior girl preferred "Jimmy."
5—Orchestra—proves very distracting.
7—Miss Evard entertains G. R. C. cabinet. Wayne Kemp has gone to Mayo Bros.
11—Pep meeting. We beat Auburn—23 to 20. Land, Hoody acted so scared when Cloyde went in. Wonder why?
14—We hear that Louis Briner has won an "I." Good!
15—Kate Patterson elected secretary of Junior Class at I. U.
19—G. R. C. sandwich sale. Oh, Boy!
20—M. Vogeding and G. Snyder seem to be quite fond of each other.
22—Miss Mac, "What piece of furniture today is the most thought of?" Maggie Witherspoon, "Davenport." South Side and Garrett. We won, you bet! 26 to 28.
23—LaOtto firsts and Garrett seconds play—22 to 22.
25—Hi-Y stag party at G. H. S. building. Lots of EATS. Lots of jokes. Lots of fun. Lots of boys.
26—School 8:30. Only a few late today.
27—Junior book report due. Wow, Juniors! Now burn the midnight oil.
28—Bur-r-r-r! Old Man Winter sure gave us a cold shoulder—zero and then some.
29—Everybody going to tourney at Ashley.
30—A. H. S. beat the Garrett ball tossers 20-25.

1—Everyone waiting for the second party this week.
2—Commercial party at Bob Housers'. Many eats, and a nice crowd. AND A GOOD TIME.
3—Demosthian party tomorrow nite. Oh, boy!
4—At Kelhams. A real HOT time. Who helped Harry H. out of the ditch?
5—Decatur. Freshie-Sophie party. Where did the eats go?
6—Fremont here, we won—26 to 27.
8—Now Freshies and Sophies, was that nice? Mustn't muss up the school house.
9—Junior magazine contest raging. Blue side ahead.
10—What's gonna happen now? Oh, yes, G. R. C. is going to K'ville.
13—Lancaster here. Tough game, we lost, 31 to 27. We go to Berne. Lost—36 to 29. Girls won, 28 to 34.
15—Everybody back to school. All sleepy. Wonder why?
16—Wonder what that noise is? Oh, yes, orchestra practice.
17—We're going to beat Auburn or bust.
18—Big pep meeting today. Biggest and best yet.
19—We will have to bust, they won—14 to 24.
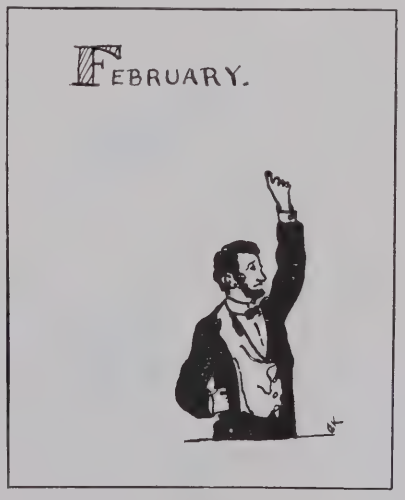
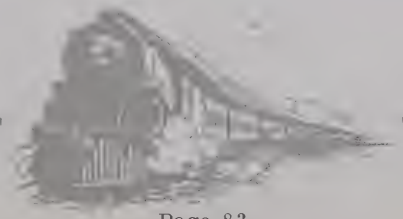
20—Gee, the big game is over. We have another chance, anyway.
22—Senior Class meeting today—about the play.
23—Noon hour orchestra. Wonder who plays in it? Seems popular, any way.
24—Visitors from A. H. S. Nice Ford they are in—so are the fellows.
26—Angola there. We won—15 to 13.
27—At Walkerton. They win—11 to 16.





1—School house 9:30.
2—School as usual. Buy some candy from the Juniors, so they can give us a nice banquet.
3—Junior party at high building. A SWELL time and hot games.
4—Went home early and happy.
5—District tourney, Garrett and Ashley. We won—25-31.
6—Semi-finals. Angola and Auburn play. Angola wins—simply walks away with the game. Hot dog! Say, Margaret and the girl beside you in the assembly, no grabbing of the Pleasant Lake basket ball team!
8—Saturday Club party at the school. All members present.
9—Chorus practice. Oh, those beautiful (?) voices.
10—Noon hour roomers at school get pictures taken.
13—Vacation tomorrow—Saturday.
16—Advertising class made doll houses. You big babies.
17—Annual staff is a very busy group. St. Patricks.
18—Spring is come. Everyone late. (?)
20—Oh, heck, no school.
22—Again Spring.
23—Windows fixed—my, the NOISE.
24—Mr. Caffery, won't you let us sweep the walk?
25—C2HOH in Chemistry. Hot dog! (A-L-C-O-H-O-L).
26—Radio-Science party at school house.
27—Another vacation.
29—A good vacation.
30—More cases broken up. Oh, the sad looks!

1—April fool! Aw, that's a good one.
2—B. B. banquet. We hear that Clinton was disappointed.
3Oh, but we hate to get up in the morning!
5—Lee G.'s birthday.
6—Wonder why the Seniors congregate in the assembly at noons.
7—Who gave Treva her Junior ring.
8—Walsh Street is popular for some people.
9—Some have the spring fever, others don't.
10—Town dead as usual.
12—Oh, boy, sunshine and a whole lot of people absent from school.
13—Where is the noon hour Latin class went?
14—Everyone is going to the play tomorrow nite.
15—Senior play a great success.
Why, Kate, we're shocked at you!
16—Class play. Oh, Harry!
17—Class play. Oh, Clinton!
-9—The Juniors seem sort of joyful.
20—Senior party at school.
21—Who's Kate Sharpless' fellow now?
22—Now, girls, all be on time, says Miss Evard.
23—G. R. C. party. Whew!
24—PAY-DAY. Saturday and no F-U-N.
26—Oh, what a relief, the Seniors turned in their last book report.
27—Poor Aeneas is being killed in Caesar Class.
29—Count your credits, Seniors. Only a few more weeks.
30—Say, when are you going to invite us to the banquet?

1—Track meet.
3—Oh, you poor Sophies! Don't cry, you'll get to go next year.
4—Too bad some of the Seniors are worrying about credits.
5—The Juniors are both joyful and nervous.
6—With whom are you going to the banquet?
7—The EATS are wonderful.
8—The morning after the nite before!
10—Chemistry class working on unknown. Try and try again.
11—Sophies have a party.
12—Gee, don't you wish there was a little more school?
13—Everyone is gloomy today.
14—Track meet.
16—First of the Senior Ceremonials.
17—OH! Tomorrow is going to be our day Seniors.
18—Class Day—You know the rest.
19—Say I heard Tub Bowlby is going to teach dancing this summer.
20—Commencement.
21—Flunk, Flunk, and a few credits that are gone. OH! Why didn't I work.
22—OH boy! No more school!
23—Do as you please.

SOCIAL

Oct. 31 Ilif Deihl invited us to her home for a Hallowe'en party. During the evening we played all sorts of games, they were fun, too! Ond then——THE EATS! We left a little late, but "all's well that ends well" so we were forgiven. We had a dandy good time.

Nov. 4 G. R. C. was delightfully entertained at Mary Edith John's home. All guests came dressed as witches, clowns, etc. After playing games a delicious lunch was served. The party dispersed at a reasonable hour.

Dec. 12 Georgia Coburn entertained the class of '27 at her home. The first number scheduled was bunco, but concentration was beyond the Juniors, and this was a sad failure. "What is not in your head, must be in your feet," so they all fell to Charlestoning. Then Miss Davis turned Gypsy and revealed many secrets. Eats were delicious and a jolly good time was enjoyed by all.

Dec. 21. The first Senior prty was held at the Garrett Hi. How stately and dignified the whole crowd looked, but my when the eats started they all acted like Freshmen, and Oh! What Eats! Oh yes, we had a Christmas exchange and of all the toys, if any one had peeped in the window they'd have thought the kindergarten was enjoying a playful hour. A general assembly was given to the empty seats, applause was deafening! Everyone departed wishing for many more such joyful evenings.

Jan. 23. The sixth annual football banquet of the Garrett high school was a decided success. The Methodist church was decorated in Maroon and Blue. With Capt. Hollopeter as toastmaster, everything went over big.

The Banquet was followed by a dance at the Maccabee Hall. The dance was carried on in a novel way, signals being called before each number, which designated the man to lead the dance. Music was furnished by The Nighthawk Four.

Jan. 27. The Juniors held a spuzzy party at the Hi school. Everyone played games and had a great time, until the assembly clock covered up with her small hand a detestable nine. That was a gentle hint for the good Juniors to run along home, which they all did after receiving a hand out of jello, wafers and cocoa.

Girl Reserves Mothers-Daughters Banquet. On the 23rd of April the annual Mother-Daughter banquet of the Girl Reserve was held in the basement of the Methodist church. The banquet was a whizz with snappy toasts, cocky cocktails, marvelous main course and delicious dessert. Over one hundred G. R. girls, mothers, friends and faculty were present.

The Hi-Y served and proved their ability as biscuit shooters as they landed one right down Miss Thrush's unsuspecting back. They also showed their prowess at the gravy boat by drenching several mothers in a storm of gravy. The banquet was successful nevertheless, and we certainly appreciated the services of the H-Y.

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"

Robert Bennet	Harry Heinzerling
E. M. Ralston	Clinton Hamilton
Dick Donnley	George Mountz
Calrence Van Dusen	Hollis Breece
Bishop Doran	Wendell Bowlby
Gwendolyn Ralston	LaVon Wolf
Mrs. E. M. Ralston	Louise Hart
Ethel Clark	Esther Clark
Mable Jackson	Katherene Sharpless
Sable Jackson	Evelyn Miller
Martha	Elizabeth Monn

Act One is laid in the interior of a broker's office in one of the principal uptown hotels. E. M. Ralston is urging his partners, Dick Donnley and Robert Bennet to sell some worthless stock, "Sulfur Quick-silver." When both men refuse to sell any of this stock, Ralston sells by phone several thousand shares to prominent business men. Among those to whom he tries to sell stock is J. P. Clark, the wealthiest man in town. Van Dusen drops into the office and buys 7,000 shares. Bishop Doran calls and informs Ralston that he and Ralston's daughter, Gwendolyn, are trying to raise by subscription, money for the Home for Children. Ralston promises to double any amount raised by the end of the month, which is only five days away. Mrs. Ralston, Ethel Clark, and Gwen call at the office. Gwen asks Bob, her sweetheart, to double her $10,000 by some investment

Bob promises to do so. He declares before Ralston, Donnley, and Van Dusen that he can tell the truth for twenty-four hours. They each take the $10,000 bet. The bet begins at four o'clock and all assail Bob with numerous questions. A few minutes later J. P. Clark calls and inquires about the stock. Bob truthfully tells him that the stock is worthless. This means ruin for Ralston. Mable and Sable, two actresses, call at the office and try to sell Dick some stocks. He tells them to come back tomorrow.

Act Two takes place in the country home of E. M. Ralston, Long Island. Bob is shadowed continually by either Donnley or Van Dusen. They declare that they will make him tell a lie if it is the last thing they ever do. Ethel Clark sings for them and Donnley insists that Bob tell what he thinks of Ethel's voice. Bob trys to evade the question but finally is forced to admit that her voice is awful. Poor Ethel is heartbroken. Martha, the maid, announces that Mable and Sable have arrived. The men are very worried about the situation. Mrs. Ralston discovers them and believe that they have come to see Mr. Ralston. While she is showing them around the men frame up a story to be told to Mrs. Ralston about the girls' presence. Bob tells Mable what to say and by doing so will lose his bet if she does as he says. Mable tells a different story when she meets Mrs. Ralston and so Bob's bet is safe.

Act Three is still at the country home. Bob is nearly exhausted by the strain of answering so many questions. The Bishop finds out by Bob's truthfulness that he has been swindled by Van Dusen on the Sulfur Quick-silver. He makes such a fuss that Ralston and Van Dusen have to give his money back. Bob is extremely nervous the last fifteen minutes of the play. The other fellows try their best to make him lose. At last four o'clock comes. Bob begins telling little white lies to smooth matters which he disturbed while he was telling the truth. He wins his money and thus is able to return to Gwen her $10,000 plus an extra $10,000.

Tri-State College

ANGOLA, INDIANA

Tri-State College is accredited by the State of Indiana for courses for the preparation of Primary, Intermediate, Grammar Grade and Rural School teachers, and for teachers of Music in the public schools. These are two-year (72 weeks) courses, and lead to a life license.

Tri-State College also offers excellent courses in Law, in Music, and in Commercial Work.

Tri-State Collebe of Engineering offers courses in Civil, Electrical, Mechanical and Chemical Engineering which can be completed in ninety-six weeks. These courses are planned for men who cannot spend a long time in school. The aim of the College is to provide thorough and up-to-date instruction in Mathematics, Science, and fundamental technical subjects, without the "academic" work which is usually required.

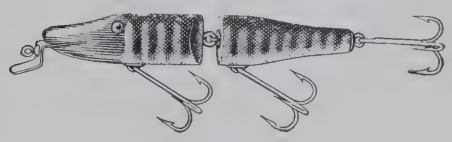
Creek Chub Baits Catch More Fish

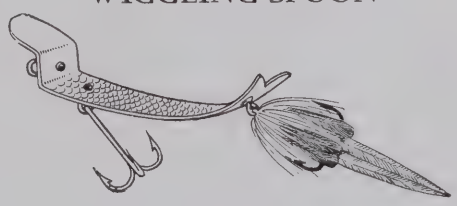
NEW JOINTED PIKIE MINNOW



PRICE $1.25

This new Jointed Pikie has a beautiful wiggling movement, flexible and senuous, which we believe makes it a still better fish getter than our Famous Pikie Minnow No. 700. It is a very easy caster and does not run quite so deep as the No. 700. We guarantee it to be a great killer. Length of body, 4½ inches. Weight, ¾ oz.

WIGGLING SPOON



PRICE $1.00

This spoon is made of heavy brass, with an exceptionally good nickel finish; is stamped with large scale finish which is the same on top and bottom. The big thing about this spoon is that no matter how fast it is pulled through the water, it never revolves and twists the line. It has a very fast wiggling movement, the same movement from side to side that has given our wooden lures their reputation. The two treble hooks attached with swivels to the body insure hooking of the fish when the bait is struck. Is made with upward slanting plane at the head so that by reeling fast the lure will come very close to the surface and if reeled very fast, will come to the surface. Casts very easy. Bass like it and Pike and Pickerel eat it up. Wiggles a pork rind something awful. Length of body, 2¼ inches. Weight, ¾ oz. Illustration is No. S-1.

"Do you think they will be any happier now that they are divorced?" asked Jones.

"They will be if they don't marry again," replied Henry.

Q.—Do you know one reason why our boys have been more successful in athletics than the average school?

A.—Yes, I know two reasons, one of them is that they show more school spirit, and the other that they are always fitted with A. G. Spalding's & Bros. Athletic equipment.

TYPING CONTEST

For the first time in the three years' life of the Commercial Department of Garrett High School, the beginning typewriting classes were represented in the Fort Wayne District Commercial Contest held at South Side High at Fort Wayne, April 24. District Honors were won by Esther Clark, Dorothy Johnson, and Marguerite Vogeding in the Novice A Typing event, with an average of 40.3 net words per minute. Esther won individual honors by writing 46.06 net words per minute. Mary Edythe Johns was the alternate. The group of three will endeavor to win the State Contest at Muncie, Indiana, May 7.

Esther and Dorothy, both Seniors, with Dorothy Editor-in-chief of the Aeolian, have used their typing ability in preparing material for the annual all year. Marguerite and Mary Edythe, Juniors never miss an opportunity to strengthen themselves for speed and accuracy in typing.

In an inter-class typing tournament held recently, Esther won over Mary Edythe; their scores in the fifteen minute test were 48 and 46 per minute.

Fred Groscup: Why do they measure the sea in knots, Sport?

Sport Hoyles: Because they couldn't have the ocean "tide" otherwise.

One Wild Night

Down in the mouth of the alley an elephant lay asleep,
The wildcat moaned in the parlor,
The lions murmured, "Peep, peep."

The coal scuttle ran through the hallway,
Chased by the grandfather's clock.
A centipede played the organ,
A dinosauer curled on the Dock.

Four hundred thousand cooties played leap-frog over a chair,
While a bald-headed man with a shoe in his mouth,
Sat complacently combing his hair.

William K. (contributor): Yes, ma'am.

Evelyn: You must be older than you look.

Getting-Up Exercise

5:55 A. M. Begin:

Open one eye. Close, open other eye, close. Repeat left and right. Reach for alarm clock grasping it firmly in right hand. Ready—throw as far as you can! Open mouth—yawn. Close. Repeat ten times with jaw movement.

Lying on back raise both arms over head.

Str-retch! Repeat.

Shut both eyes. Doze. Grasp covers firmly. Rise to sitting posture. Place right foot on floor. Shiver, stumble over shoes getting to window. Don't say what you think. Close window. Give one flying leap back to bed. Pull covers firmly up to neck. Repeat eye shutting exercise. Begin deep breathing exercise. One, two; one, two; one, two. Sleep thirty minutes.

6:45. Too late for breakfast.
